

Kenworth Employees Donate More than 7,500 Pounds of Food To Northwest Harvest in Washington State

KIRKLAND, Wash. – In the spirit of the holiday season, Kenworth employees at the company’s headquarters in Kirkland, Wash., recently conducted a food drive that resulted in a donation of more than 7,500 lbs. of food to Northwest Harvest.

“Kenworth employees conducted a very generous effort to assist the less fortunate in Washington state during this holiday season,” said Gary Moore, Kenworth general manager and PACCAR vice president. “We appreciate their caring spirit and the leadership of our 17 food drive teams, who helped encourage contributions through a friendly competition.”

According to Northwest Harvest, the organization is the only non-profit food bank distributor operating statewide in Washington state with a network of more than 370 food banks, meal programs and high-need schools. Northwest Harvest provides more than 2 million meals every month. All of its food and operating funds come from individuals, businesses, foundations and other organizations, and 93 percent of its total budget goes directly to food distribution.
